Dear Ed:

Having already read the account of the interview with Don Rubin in the Sunday New York Times about the issue of hospital surveyors, I believe that this letter may be tardy.

When I first read the material a week ago, my comments, which I shared with Pete were that it was "super, excellent, on target". Pete was in complete agreement with that appraisal. I should have called you earlier to share these thoughts with you. In my review of the text I detected one or two unimportant typographical errors, which I'm sure you already remedied. This is a great issue; I'd like to see it in print.

The author and compiler of this text should be congratulated, whoever it is.

Cordially yours,

DM:th
